Hispanics in the U.S. Optimistic about their Personal Finances

By
Published: Apr 13, 2018 3:50 am

President Trump’s Job Approval at 37 Percent Among Hispanics

Boca Raton, Fla. April 12, 2018 — Hispanics in the U.S. are more optimistic about their financial situation and their economic conditions have generally improved in the first three months of 2018, according to a new national consumer sentiment index conducted by the Doral Chamber of Commerce Florida, a joint initiative of the Florida Atlantic University Business and Economics Policy Initiative (FAU-BEPI) in FAU’s College of Business.

The Hispanic Consumer Sentiment Index (HCSI), taken from January through March 2018, stands at 16.5, up 5.4 points from the fourth quarter of 2017, and the highest score since the index went to a quarterly format in 2016. The index is 2.5 points below the 19.1 a score for the overall U.S. population for December, as published by the University of Michigan.

Hispanics are more optimistic about their personal finances in the first quarter of 2018 compared to the last quarter of 2017. Overall, 60 percent of Hispanics indicate that they are financially better off today than a year ago, up 4 points from the last quarter. In addition, 79 percent of Hispanics are optimistic about their financial future, up 7 points from the previous quarter. Finally, 69 percent of Hispanics think it is a good time to purchase big-ticket items for their homes, up 17 points from the last quarter of 2017.

“Perhaps this is a clue to the fact that interest rates are going up and it’s better to lock lower interest rates today,” said Doral Chamber of Commerce Florida President Al Cibischiero, Ph.D., director of FAU-BEPI.

Nearly 6 in 10 Hispanics (59 percent) said it was a good time to buy a home and 62 percent said it was a good time to buy a car. However, the cost of living continues to increase for the majority of Hispanics, with 59 percent saying it has gone up when 23 percent saying it has gone down.

The survey was conducted nationally from Jan. 1 to March 31, 2018. The random polling sample consisted of 275 Hispanics, 16 years of age and older, with a margin of error of +/- 4.3 percent.

View original content with multimedia at https://newsroom.kr/issue/issue/hispanics-in-the-u-s-optimistic-about-their-personal-finances-109062616.htm

SOURCE Florida Atlantic University Business and Economics Policy Initiative

Copyright © 2018 KR Newswire. All rights reserved.

From MarketWatch
More Coverage
• These indexes the stock market's fundamentals look solid
• What Admiral's war-buffing word says
• S&P 500 temporarily touched the year as trade war winds rise

BACK TO TOP

• MarketWatch
  • S&P Index
  • Dow Jones
  • NASDAQ
  • Feedback
  • Newsletters
  • Media Archive
  • Share Market Facts
  • Mobile

• Company
  • Corporate Info
  • Code of Conduct
  • Corrections
  • Advertising Media Kit
  • Advertising Rates
  • Requests & Journals
  • State Tech Center

• Dow Jones Network
  • WSJ.com
  • Barron's Online
  • MarketWatch
  • Virtual Stock Exchange
  • Financial News Network
  • WallStreet.com
  • Value Line

Copyright © 2018 MarketWatch, Inc. All rights reserved.

By using this site you agree to the Terms of Service, Privacy Policy and Cookie Policy.