How can business professionals bridge the gap between wanting to grow their careers and wanting to stay out of the spotlight? Florida Atlantic Executive Education has the solution! Our new certificate course, The Executive Impact: Strategic Speaking for Leaders, is designed to help business leaders gain the skills needed to present effectively in front of an audience.

Sarah Wilson, Program Manager for Executive Education's Leadership suite, shared, "Our students have been telling us that our leadership programs are fantastic for building emotional intelligence and helping them manage difficult one-on-one conversations, but they'd like more practice with public speaking." In response, Executive Education's Professional Development department recruited Dr. Joseph Compomizzi, Director of FAU's Business Communication Department, and instructor Beth Sindaco to create an eight-session program that addresses the most critical public speaking needs for today's business professionals.

Launched successfully in Fall 2024, this program is designed to help participants understand the mechanics and content of different types of presentations, improve critical listening skills and feedback techniques, and maximize self-confidence in both prepared and impromptu delivery. "We aim to create an environment where our students can practice and receive real-time feedback," said Sindaco. "Becoming comfortable with various presentation styles and visual aids will yield immediate ROI for our participants, as they'll be working with actual material they need to present at work."

THE EXECUTIVE IMPACT: STRATEGIC SPEAKING FOR LEADERS

This multi-week course equips business professionals of all levels with confidence in presentation delivery. Participants learn audience analysis, message refinement, effective listening, content customization, and delivery techniques. The course covers multimedia design, publishing software, and offers personal feedback from Business Communications experts.

FAU Executive Education partners with RANE to offer the Certificate in Geopolitical Analysis. RANE is the world's leading geopolitical intelligence platform. RANE brings global events into valuable perspective, empowering businesses, governments and individuals to more confidently navigate their way through an increasingly complex international environment.

CERTIFICATE IN GEOPOLITICAL ANALYSIS

FAU's Certificate in Geopolitical Analysis provides business professionals with an understanding of Geopolitics as it relates to risk, opportunity and the business cycle. The program provides methods to assess the impact of geopolitical events on business continuity, supply chains and strategic planning, and tools to build and monitor geopolitical forecasts and scenarios to inform strategic decisions and contingency planning.

Participants taking this course will learn the following:

☑ Understanding Geopolitics

From trade wars to regulatory shifts to supply chain disruptions, geopolitical forces are impacting business operations around the world. But geopolitics is more than just a notion of distant disruptions; it is a framework to understand the forces that compel and constrain government actions. Learn the key elements of geopolitical analysis and how these can help you understand and anticipate changes that can create risk or opportunity for international business operations.

☑ Building a Foundational Assessment

A baseline geopolitical analysis can help you quickly understand the key aspects of a new market for entry, or test assumptions about existing markets. In a small team exercise, build a geopolitical assessment from the ground up, drawing on the pillars of geopolitics, and identify key questions to enhance a business case assessment for new entry or to respond to changes in existing markets.

☑ Forecasting and Scenarios

Geopolitical analysis provides a way to forecast the direction of international events, and this can assist businesses in building resilience against future shocks. Learn and apply the tools of building out a geopolitical forecast, identifying its business relevance, and building out plausible alternative scenarios. These scenarios allow pre-planning against changes, positive or negative, thus reducing response time to disruptions.

☑ Applying Geopolitical Analysis

Reviewing the methods of geopolitical analysis and scenario building, discuss the application of these ideas and methods into existing operations. How can they be adapted to enhance current intelligence collection and analysis, how can information be shaped best for different end users, and how can these processes, which at times appear time-consuming - be integrated in a way to improve both the scope of outlooks and shorten response times.

PROJECT MANAGEMENT 561.297.0637

WELCOME TO THE PROJECT ECONOMY

“Change is as relentless as it is pervasive—from the impact of technologies like artificial intelligence to the clamor for greater social accountability to customers’ ever evolving expectations. Organizations that stick with the status quo risk not just treading water, but sinking.”

“Organizations are under-going a fundamental paradigm shift in which projects are no longer adjacent to operations but instead primary to how work gets done and problems get solved. In many ways, the organization is the project—led by a variety of titles, executed through a variety of approaches, and focused unwaveringly on delivering financial and societal value. This is...The Project Economy.”

2020 Pulse of the Profession®

According to PMI’s most recent Talent Gap report, 2.3 million people will be needed each year to fill all of the project management-oriented positions expected to open by 2030. To remain competitive, companies will need to focus on hiring problem solvers and relationship builders who can help them drive change and deliver strategic value.

And that will sustain demand for project leaders — especially those with the power skills that can help organizations navigate turbulent times. Knowing where opportunities are most likely to bubble up will empower project professionals to find career opportunities.

Gain maximum practice flexibility and enhance your year-round value by performing tax work during tax season and conducting audits, consulting, or other work during the rest of the year! You can gain a solid Tax foundation without an undergraduate accounting or business degree required.

Industry experts and tax specialists, many who have worked for the IRS or own their own tax practices, cover important tax topics including Tax Research, International Tax, Corporate Tax, Partnerships Tax, IRS Practices and Procedures as well as areas related to auditing and consulting: Advanced Auditing, Accounting Information Systems, and E-Commerce.

Those with an undergraduate degree in accounting have the option of completing the program in as few as three semesters.

CPAs work in all sectors of the economy, public accounting, government, and in private companies. FAU's Accounting program is well known and highly respected in the South Florida accounting community, with many firms—from Big 4 to regional and local ones—seeking out FAU students and graduates.

Combine your newly acquired knowledge and skills to launch your accounting career or land your next promotion. A BUSINESS COMMUNITY'S BEST RESOURCE

Stephen Covey, author of The 7 Habits of Highly Effective People and widely regarded as one of the world's top leadership experts, once said,

“Always treat your employees exactly as you want them to treat your best customers.”

Covey was ahead of his time when he wrote that in 1989, but today it is clear that employees want more than just a paycheck—they want to feel engaged, valued, and respected. They seek a corporate culture that encourages continuous growth and learning. In a world that is constantly shifting, employees recognize the need to upskill or reskill regularly.

“A custom program with Florida Atlantic's Corporate Training creates a transformational learning opportunity that addresses your team's specific needs,” said Paige Pavlik, Assistant Director of Corporate Training and Talent Development. “Custom group training creates meaningful and lasting change from within. Investing in your most valuable resource—your people—is fundamental to long-term success.”

Training options range from short-term certificate programs to long-term commitments designed to upskill entire divisions. From Six Sigma and Project Management courses to Business Analytics, Artificial Intelligence, and Leadership programs, Florida Atlantic Executive Education offers over 60 programs, all customizable to meet business partners' needs.

Recently, Executive Education partnered with the City of Deerfield Beach on an initiative funded by the Florida Commerce Community Development Block Grant-Coronavirus (CDBG-CV) program. This program, called Ready2Work, was created to equip residents with industry-recognized certifications, empowering them to pursue fulfilling careers and strengthen the local workforce.

READY2WORK

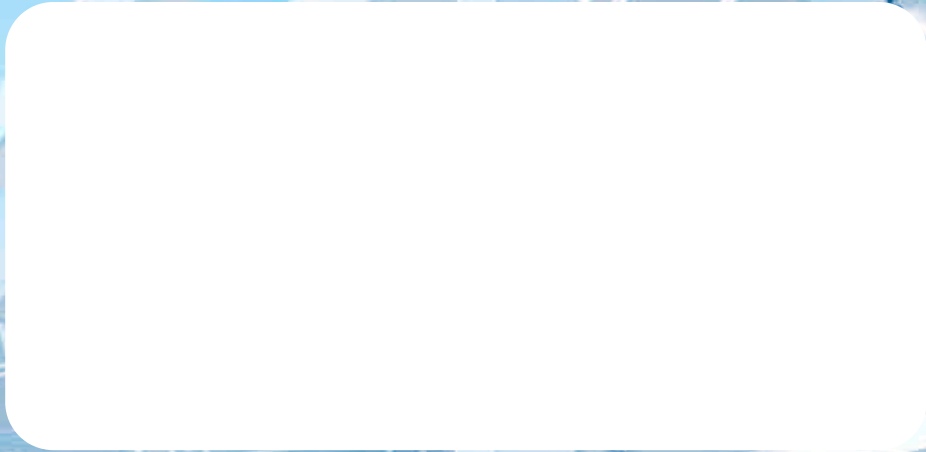

Executive Education collaborated with the city to design a suite of courses tailored to build high-demand skills for residents. These courses included Project Management, Lean Six Sigma Green Belt, Entrepreneurship Boot Camp, Introduction to Marketing, and a Certificate in Hospitality and Tourism. Broward College also joined, and together the institutions registered over 170 Deerfield Beach residents.

Executive Education takes pride in its ability to creatively serve the business community's professional development needs.
