

FAU Business News

March 2021

Finance Professor Named Fulbright Scholar

FAU finance professor Anna Agapova, Ph.D., has been designated a Fulbright U.S. Scholar for gender-related research in Finland.

LEARN ABOUT THE HONOR

Study Shows Where Money Is Best Spent to Fight a Pandemic

In deciding on how to combat pandemics like COVID-19, the total amount a government is willing to invest is critical, according to a research team that includes three professors from the College of Business.

READ THE STUDY

Women-Related Research Topics in Business and Life

College of Business faculty actively earn project funding as well as research and publish on gender-related themes across a variety of business fields—from Management, Entrepreneurship and Health Administration to Finance, Economics and Accounting.

EXPLORE THE RESEARCH

Floridians Bullish on U.S. Economy but Less Certain About Finances

While Floridians are upbeat about the U.S. economic recovery from the COVID-19 pandemic, many residents believe their finances won't return to normal until later this year or even beyond 2022, according to a statewide survey by the FAU Business and Economics Polling Initiative.

BROWSE SURVEY RESULTS

Study: Entrepreneurs Getting Big Boost from Online Lending

Online marketplace loans are leading to a sharp rise in new businesses, evidence that the lending platforms are helping to redefine the U.S. banking industry.

LEARN ABOUT THE BUSINESS BOOST

Reconsider Renting: Housing Index Shows Buying Costs Decline

Renting a home and reinvesting has been the better way to build wealth, on average, for several years. But as house prices escalate across the nation, that strategy is losing momentum.

MORE ON BUYING VS. RENTING

CPA Discipline Motivated by Political Regime

The severity of state sanctions handed out to certified public accountants is influenced by political regime, a practice with potentially dire consequences for companies and their shareholders.

SEE THE RESEARCH

Faculty as News Media Experts

FAU Business faculty engage with local, regional, and national audiences. Recent media mentions include the following outlets:

- Sun Sentinel: Home-based businesses: an important next step for Florida entrepreneurship | Opinion
- Palm Beach Post: Biden road trip to sell stimulus: Is Florida in play as DNC posts billboards aimed at Scott, Rubio
- Sun Sentinel: Floridians are going back to work: Unemployment rate drops to 4.8%
- The Washington Post: Mortgage rates top 3 percent for first time since the summer
- Yahoo Finance: FAU Study: Entrepreneurs Getting Big Boost from Online Lending

VIEW ALL MEDIA MENTIONS

